
About Eldritch Hills Amtgard (East Pasadena, CA)

Eldritch Hills is one chapter in the global game of Amtgard, a system which aims to bring medieval and fantasy worlds to life in the modern age.

History

The story of Eldritch Hills began in late May 2009, when two experienced Los Angeles-based players decided to expand Amtgard's small presence in the region by forming a second chapter there. Over the next few weeks, they and a friend plotted the new chapter's future. On August 7, their official game contract was approved. On August 8, the chapter was officially announced at a major event. Over the remainder of that month, the group began holding evening fighter practices to build word of mouth in the area, and later in the month began to supplement this with local advertising. On August 30, the chapter will hold its grand opening celebration, an event that will feature a tour, games, food, a pie-in-the face fundraiser, and a heck of a lot of ditching.

Structure

Eldritch Hills is one of 11 Amtgard chapters in California. These include our regional partners, Siar Geata in Escondido and Silver Sun in Santa Barbara. Almost all of the 11 chapters belong to the "Principality" of Westmarch. The entire Principality is part of the "Kingdom" of Dragonspine. Dragonspine is one of 13 Kingdoms in the game. The Burning Lands, based in Texas, is the oldest and main kingdom, and holds the licensing rights to the game.
